THE CALENDAR

The calendar is a method of identifying the passage of time and thereby regulating our civil life and religious observances.

Days, months, and years are based on astronomical periods. The day is the time it takes the earth to make one revolution on its axis, the month is associated with the period of rotation of the moon around the earth, while the year has to do with the rotation of the earth around the sun.

Many religious ideas and observances have been connected with the changes of the moon, and in ancient times the calendar took account of the moon rather than the seasons. From new moon to new moon is 29.530 days, and from one spring equinox to the next is 365.24219 days. Since the two are incommensurable, the modern calendar disregards the moon.

THE JULIAN CALENDAR

When Julius Caesar came to power, the Roman Calendar was hopelessly confused. With the advice of the Alexandrian astronomer, Sosigenes, Julius Caesar established the Julian Calendar. The length of the year was taken as 365¼ days, and in order to account for the ¼ day, an extra day was added every fourth year. From 45 B.C. each month has had its present number of days. In the old Roman Calendar which was based on the moon an extra month was inserted to straighten out the difference between twelve lunations, 354.37 days, and 355 days, which they called a year. This was inserted when necessary after February 23rd. In the Julian Calendar the extra day was added by repeating the sixth day before the Kalends (1st) of March, whence comes our word bissextile for leap year.

No very significant change was made till the reform of Pope Gregory XIII in A.D. 1582.

The Julian Calendar is known as the "Old Style" and after the change made by Pope Gregory as the "New Style"; the difference between the two is 13 days. The Calendar so arranged is known as the "Old Style" and is now used by the Eastern Orthodox Church in Russia, Ukrainia, Syria and Palestine.

THE GREGORIAN CALENDAR

In that the Solar Year is 11 minutes, 12 seconds less than the Julian Year of 365¼ days, it followed in course of years that the Julian Calendar became inaccurate by several days, and in 1582 this difference amounted to 10 days. Pope Gregory XIII, at the suggestion of Aloysius Lilius, an astronomer of Naples, determined to rectify this, and devised the Calendar now known as the Gregorian Calendar. He dropped or cancelled these 10 days—October 5th being called October 15th—and made centurial years Leap years only once in 4 centuries; so that whilst 1700, 1800 and 1900 were to be ordinary years, 2000 would be Leap year. This modification brought the Gregorian year into such close exactitude with the Solar year that there is only a difference of 26 seconds, which amounts to a day in 3,323 years. This is the "New Style". The Gregorian Calendar was adopted in Italy, France, Spain, Portugal and Poland in 1582, by most of the German Roman Catholic states, Holland and Flanders in 1583, Hungary in 1587. The adoption in Switzerland began in 1584 and was not completed till 1812. The German and Dutch Protestant states generally, along with Denmark adopted it in 1700. British dominions in 1752, Sweden in 1753, Japan in 1873, China in 1912, Bulgaria in 1915, Soviet Russia in 1918, Yugoslavia in 1919, Romania and Greece in 1924, Turkey in 1927. The rules for Easter have not, however, been adopted by those oriental churches that are not subject to the Papacy.

The difference between the two "Styles" will remain 13 days until A.D. 2100.

THE JEWISH CALENDAR

The Jewish Calendar from the institution of the Mosaic Law downward was a lunar one, consisting of twelve months. The cycles of religious feasts commencing with the passover depending not only on the month but on the Moon; the 14th of the month of Abid or Nisan was coincident with the full moon; and the new moons themselves were the occasions of regular festivals; the commencement of the month was generally determined by observations of the new moon, but twelve lunar months would make but 354½ days, the years would be short twelve days of the true year and it was necessary that an additional month, Veader, be inserted about every third year.

The modern Jewish Calendar is based on fixed rules and not on observation. A common year may contain 353, 354 or 355 days and the Leap year 383, 384 or 385 days. The intercalary month always contains 30 days and is inserted next before the month Adar which name and place it takes. Adar itself is called second Adar or Veadar. Tishri 1 is the Jewish New Year and it cannot be a Sunday, Wednesday or Friday. Tishri 1 is not necessarily the day of new moon but is governed by a mean new moon which is calculated from the value of a mean lunation. It is complicated as compared with the Gregorian Calendar. The intercalary month is introduced seven times in every nineteen years.

The identification of the Jewish months with our own cannot be effected with precision on account of the variations existing between the lunar and solar month.

THE MOHAMMEDAN CALENDAR

The Mohammedan Calendar is called also the Calendar of Hegira (i.e. Migration) and is attributed to the primary migration of Mohammed, the Prophet of Islam, on July 16th, 622 A.D. from Mecca, his native city in the land of Hejaz, Arabia, to the city of Medina in the north of the same land. In Medina the Prophet and Founder of the Islamic Faith died and was buried.

Each year consists of 12 lunar months, and since no intercalation is made the months go round the seasons in between 32 and 33 years.

The year 1389 according to the Hegira Calendar began on March 19th, 1969, the year 1390 on March 8, 1970 Gregorian.

CALENDAR REFORM

Reform of the calendar, so that it may be balanced in structure, perpetual in form and harmonious in arrangement, has long been under discussion.

In 1937, when an enquiry was made by the League of Nations, 14 governments approved in principle of The World Calendar. World War II delayed further action. In October 1953 India put a proposal before the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations which embodied The World Calendar.

At Geneva, in July 1954, it was unanimously decided to request governments of member and non-member states to express their views on the desirability of calendar reform.

On May 16, 1955, ECOSOC decided to extend the time for sending in replies for a year.

The World Calendar comprises equal quarters in which the first month of each has 31 days and the other two 30 days each. These quarters contain exactly 91 days, 13 weeks and 3 months, with 13 Sundays and 78 weekdays, while each month has 26 weekdays. The last day of every year, December 31st, is called Worldsday and is placed between Saturday, December 30th, and Sunday, January 1st. In leap years, to make up the quota of 366 days, Leapyear Day, June 31st, is similarly interposed between Saturday and Sunday at the half year. The calendar is thus stabilized and has the same day-and-date arrangement every year. Christmas always falls on Monday, Dominion Day, July 1st, on Sunday with observance on Monday.

Worldsday is designed to be a world-wide holiday dedicated to international good will. Leapyear Day would also be a day of rest.

The World Calendar is sponsored by the International World Calendar Association, now with headquarters in Ottawa (address P.O. Box 20, Besserer St.) A. J. Hills Chairman of the Canadian Affiliate has succeeded to the Presidency. Hon C. Fraser Elliott, C.M.G.. Q.C. is Honorary General Counsel, Charles Clay, B.A., F.A.G.S., is Consultant, and J. Avery Joyce, Ph.D., F.R.G.S., Representative at the United Nations.

The Association has consultative status with the United Nations as a Non-Governmental Organization. Through its affiliates and National Committees throughout the world the Association endeavours to advance its plan of calendar reform, which through ECOSOC was referred to members and non-members of U.N.

In April, 1956 the item World calendar reform was withdrawn from ECOSOC by request of the Association to give time to obtain additional support.

The change-over could be effected without disturbance when the Gregorian calendar commences on a Sunday, which occurred in 1967, Canada's Centennial Year. With The World Calendar, every year commences on Sunday, January 1st.

THE WEEK

The division of the week is found only among Aryan nations and in regions into which they have penetrated. The day is, for convenience, divided into 24 equal parts and is the period of a single rotation of the earth upon its own axis.

A Solar or Astronomical day commences at midnight, and is divided into two equal portions of 12 hours each—those before noon being termed (A.M.) those after noon (P.M.).

The Chinese week consists of 5 days, which are named after iron, wood, water, feathers and earth; they divide the day into 12 parts of 2 hours each.

The Anglo-Saxons named the days of the week after the following deities; Sunday, the Sun; Monday, the Moon; Tuesday, Tuesco (God of War); Wednesday, Woden (God of Storms); Thursday, Thor (God of Thunder); Friday, Freya (Goddess of Love); Saturday, Saturn (God of Time).

The word week is from Wikon (German); = change, succession.

Dominical Letter

The Roman Calendar makers placed the letters A.B.C.D.E.F.G. against the day of the year. The letter which stands against the Sundays is known as the Dominical Letter. In Leap year since no letter is set opposite the added day one letter appears for January and February and the letter preceding for the remainder of the year.

Example—

	A	B	C	D	E	F	G
1968	Mon.	Tu.	Wed.	Th.	Fr.	Sat.	Sun.
Jan	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Feb.	26	27	28	29
	A	B	C	—	D	E	F
Mar.					1	2	3

Jan. 7 (Sun.) is G. G therefore is the Dominical letter for Jan. and Feb. Since no letter is assigned for Feb. 29, Sunday from then on comes under the letter F, which is the letter for the remainder of the year.

Golden Number—The calendar for the phases of the moon is nearly the same every 19 years which is known as the Metonic Cycle. The Golden Number is its number in this Metonic Cycle. To find the Golden Number for 1970 add 1 to 1970 and divide by 19. The remainder, 14, is the Golden Number.

Solar Cycle

In the Julian Calendar the days of the year recurred on the same days of the week in 7 x 4 years; 28 years was called the Solar Cycle. It is little used now.

The Cycle of the Indiction, is a non-astronomical cycle of 15 years. Following Diocletian's reconquest of Egypt in A.D. 297 a provincial census was taken and repeated every 15 years.

Julian Period

This is a combination of the Solar Cycle of 28 years, the Metonic or Lunar Cycle of 19 years, and the Cycle of the Indiction, 15 years. These are all supposed to begin on January 1 of the Julian Calendar which was 4713 B.C. The Julian days are numbered consecutively from Greenwich mean noon on January 21, 4713 B.C.

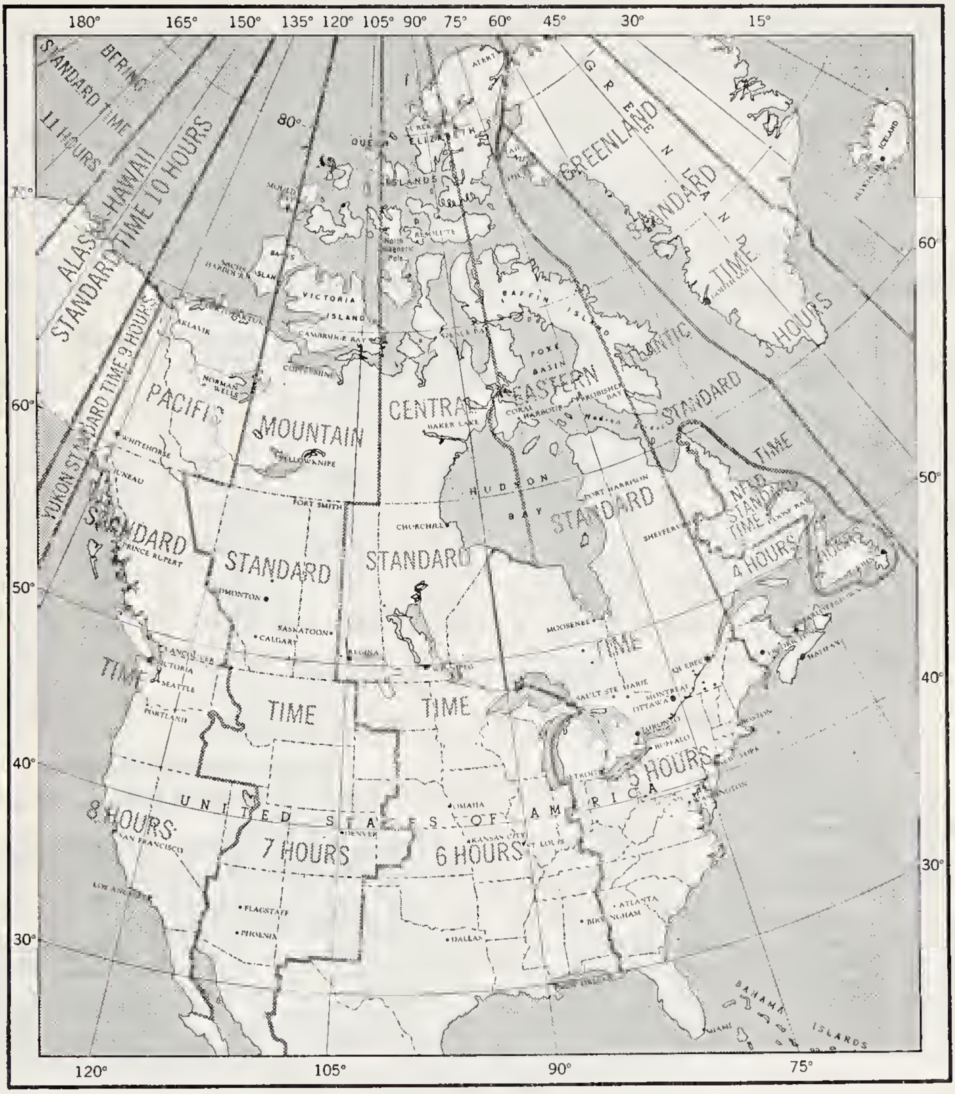
MAP OF STANDARD TIME ZONES



STANDARD TIME

Owing to the great breadth of Canada the difference in solar time in various parts of the country is adjusted by the creation of Standard Time Zones, one hour in width, fixed between arbitrary lines running north and south, 15° of longitude apart, the time observed in each zone being an exact number of hours slow from Greenwich.

Example: When it is 8 a.m. by Pacific Time it is 12 noon by Atlantic Time and 4 p.m. at Greenwich. There are seven zones divided as follows, reckoning from Greenwich:

Newfoundland Standard Time	Newfoundland, including Labrador, 3½ hours slow.
Atlantic Standard Time 60th Meridian Time	New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, and those parts of Quebec and N.W.T. east of the 68th Meridian, 4 hours slow.
Eastern Standard Time 75th Meridian Time	Quebec west of the 68th Meridian and Ontario as far west as the 90th Meridian; N.W.T. between the 68th and 85th Meridian, 5 hours slow.
Central Standard Time 90th Meridian Time	Ontario west of the 90th Meridian, Manitoba, easterly part of Saskatchewan and N.W.T. between the 85th and 102nd Meridian, 6 hours slow.
Mountain Standard Time 105th Meridian Time	Western Saskatchewan (in winter); throughout Alberta and in N.W.T. between the 102nd and 120th Meridian, 7 hours slow.
Pacific Standard Time 120th Meridian Time	Throughout most of British Columbia and in N.W.T. west of the 120th Meridian, 8 hours slow.
Yukon Standard Time 135th Meridian Time	Throughout Yukon Territory, 9 hours slow.

Standard Times as used by the railways in traversing these Zones are in general use. Solar time around the globe varies four minutes with each degree of longitude.

ECLIPSES DURING 1970

In 1970 there will be four eclipses, two of the sun and two of the moon. Of these, the total eclipse of the sun on March 7 and both partial eclipses of the moon, on the nights of February 20-21 and August 16-17, will be visible in North America.

1. A partial eclipse of the moon on the night of February 20-21, visible in North America.

Moon enters umbra...............3h 02m E.S.T.
Middle of eclipse...............3h 30m E.S.T.
Moon leaves umbra...............3h 58m E.S.T.
Moon leaves penumbra...........6h 01m E.S.T.
Magnitude of the eclipse 0.051

2. A total eclipse of the sun on March 7. The band of totality closely follows the east coast of the United States and Canada, crossing the eastern parts of Nova Scotia and Newfoundland where totality lasts about two minutes and occurs between 14h 50m and 15h 00m A.S.T. depending upon locality. All the rest of North America except Alaska will experience a partial eclipse.

3. A partial eclipse of the moon on the night of August 16-17, visible in North America except the extreme north-western part.

Moon enters umbra..............21h 17m E.S.T.
Middle of eclipse................22h 23m E.S.T.
Moon leaves umbra..............23h 30m E.S.T.
Moon leaves penumbra August 17, 0h 40m E.S.T.
Magnitude of the eclipse 0.413.

4. An annular eclipse of the sun, August 31-September 1, visible only in the South Pacific Ocean.

TRANSIT OF MERCURY

On the morning of May 9th Mercury will transit the sun's disk. The event will be seen in its entirety in eastern Europe and Africa and in western Asia. Farther to the west the transit will already be in progress at sunrise. In eastern and central North America the egress will be seen after sunrise, but in the far west the transit will be ended before sunrise. The time of egress in latitude 45° will be approximately as shown below, and will be about 10 seconds earlier (later) per 5° of latitude farther north (south).

Interior egress................7h 10m 20s E.S.T.

The position angle (reckoned from the north limb of the sun toward the east) of egress is 237°.

NOTES ON THE ASTRONOMICAL TABLES

The purpose of the following notes is to explain those tables which are not self-explanatory and to illustrate how they may be used for places other than those specified.

SUNRISE AND SUNSET (Pp. 10 to 16)

These tables give Standard Times of Sunrise and Sunset for the four Canadian cities listed. When Daylight Saving Time is in effect, of course, one hour must be added to the listed times. The calculations are for the upper limb (edge) of the sun and for the astronomical (sea) horizon. Accordingly the actual observation of Sunrise or Sunset will differ from the tabulated value if the observer is below or above the level of his visible horizon at the point of Sunrise or Sunset.

The listed times of Moonrise and Moonset have been calculated for places at the stated latitudes and for longitude 5 hours west.

To obtain the approximate times of Sunrise, Sunset, Moonrise and Moonset for other Canadian cities and towns proceed as indicated in the accompanying table. The errors for Sunrise and Sunset by this approximate method will seldom exceed 10 minutes in winter and summer or 4 minutes in spring, and for Moonrise and Moonset they will seldom exceed 15 minutes.

AZIMUTH OF THE SUN AT RISING AND SETTING (see table on page 17)

Only twice a year, namely about March 21 and September 23, does the sun rise and set more or less exactly in the east and west respectively. It is of interest and sometimes of value to know the position of Sunrise and Sunset at other times. The table on page 16 tabulates these positions in degrees east of north and west of north for Sunrise and Sunset respectively for a selection of latitudes and dates. For latitudes and dates other than those tabulated take simple proportions.

REFERENCES

The tables and charts in the Canadian Almanac are intended for simple astronomical observations. To make more extensive observations the following are recommended: The Observer's Handbook (obtainable from The Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, 252 College Street, Toronto; Price $1.50); Astronomical Phenomena (obtainable from The Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C.; Price 40c.)

MAGNETIC DECLINATION

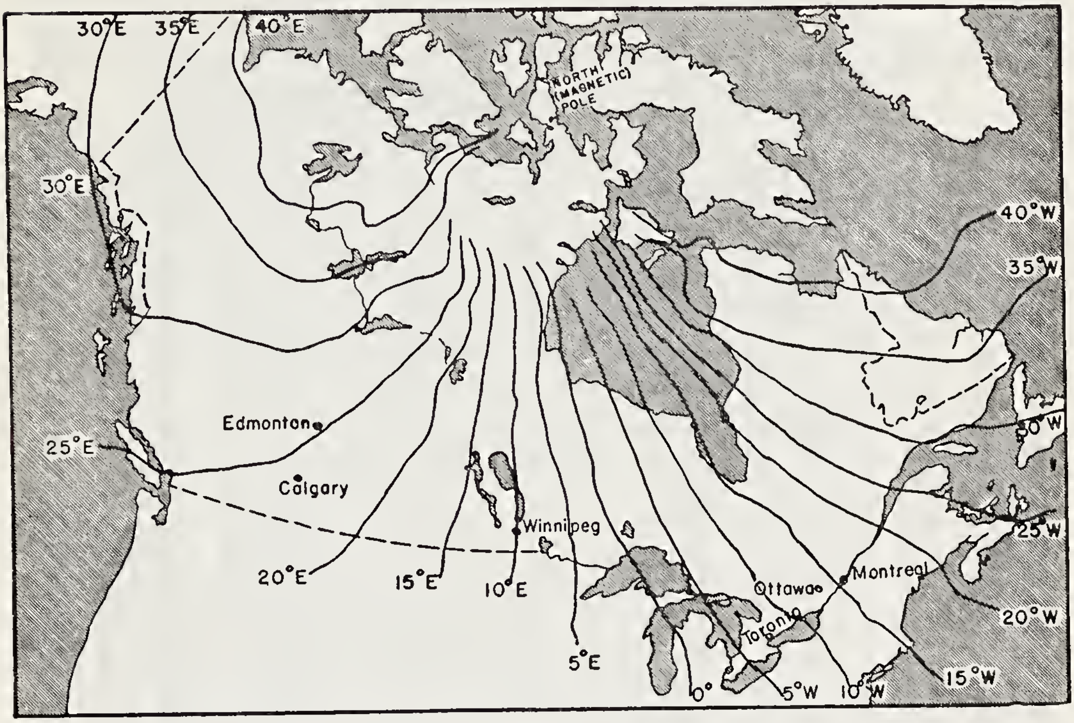

CHART OF MAGNETIC DECLINATION

A compass needle, even when unaffected by extraneous magnetic fields, does not in general point due north. The amount and direction by which its direction differs from true north is called magnetic declination or variation. The declination varies with the position of the observer and also varies slowly with time. The above chart gives the values of declination over Canada as of 1940. These values may be used for 1970 unless accuracy of better than 1° is required.

Example: What is the direction of the compass needle at the southern tip of Lake Manitoba?

From the chart this point is about ¼ of the way from the line of 10°E declination towards the line of 15°E declination. Therefore the declination is 11°E, i.e., the needle points 11° east of true north.

A large map of Canada showing lines of Equal Magnetic Declination and Annual Change in Canada for 1970 is obtainable from the Map Distribution Office, 615 Booth St., Ottawa 4, Price $1.00 each.

ASTRONOMY IN CANADA

Canada possesses a number of major observatories devoted to one phase or other of astronomical research. The Department of Energy, Mines and Resources of the Government of Canada operates three of these: the Dominion Observatory at Ottawa, where position astronomy, the Canadian Time Service, solar and meteor astronomy are the principal activities; the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory near Victoria where 72-inch and 48-inch reflecting telescopes are used for astrophysical and galactic research; the Dominion Radio Astrophysical Observatory near Penticton, B.C., which possesses a 25 meter diameter parabolic reflector and two large low frequency arrays for radio studies of the universe. The Universities of British Columbia and of Victoria have astronomy programs, collaborating with the Dominion observatories in research projects.

The University of Toronto offers specialized training in astronomy to students at both the undergraduate and graduate level. It operates the David Dunlap Observatory near Richmond Hill, which possesses a 74-inch reflecting telescope as well as several smaller optical telescopes and a number of radio telescopes of moderate size. Among its research activities are astronomical spectroscopy, studies of star clusters and galaxies and radio astronomy.

The University of Western Ontario offers honours undergraduate and graduate programs in astronomy. A 48-inch reflector has been installed at a new observatory site 15 miles north of London. On the campus the University operates the Hume Cronyn Observatory which has a 10-inch refractor and smaller instruments. Research interests include photometry, stellar spectroscopy, and radio astronomy.

Queen's University possesses several telescopes, both optical (including a 15-inch reflector) and radio, which are used for research and student training. York University and The University of Waterloo both have research telescopes and well-developed programs in astronomy. Several other Canadian Universities have small observatories used for student instruction only.

The National Research Council conducts meteor research at the Spring Hill Observatory near Ottawa and research in radio astronomy at the Algonquin Radio Observatory at Lake Traverse in Algonquin Park where facilities are also provided for radio astronomers of Queen's University and the University of Toronto. A 150-foot steerable paraboloid is the major telescope at the Algonquin Observatory.

The Defence Research Board conducts research in radio astronomy at low frequencies from the Alouette satellites.

Observatories devoted largely to amateur astronomical observations are operated by Centres of the Royal Astronomical Society at Montreal, Quebec and Winnipeg.

There are public visiting hours at some of these observatories. The Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Victoria is open on Saturday evenings from April 1st. to Nov. 30; the Dominion Observatory, Ottawa, Saturday evenings, April to October inclusive: David Dunlap Observatory, Richmond Hill, Ont., Saturday evenings April 1 to October 31 by reservation, and Tuesday mornings throughout the year; Hume Cronyn Observatory, London, a schedule for the year is published each Fall; University of Saskatchewan Observatory, Saskatoon, open house every Wednesday evening; The Dominion Radio Astrophysical Observatory, Penticton, B.C.; Sundays, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. during July and August.

In addition to professional astronomers there are many amateurs in Canada who follow this interesting study. Most of these are members of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada (see index) which has 16 Centres across Canada and which welcomes as members all who are interested in the subject.

METEORS, METEORITES, AND METEOR SHOWERS

A meteor or "shooting star" appears momentarily in the sky when a particle from beyond the earth enters the earth's atmosphere at a high velocity. Most visible meteors are caused by particles smaller than a grain of wheat, and these small particles are completely vaporized in the atmosphere at a height of about 80 miles. A spectacular meteor, known as a fire-ball, is caused by a larger body which may fall to the earth's surface in one or more pieces. Particles seen thus to fall, or subsequently found by analysis to be of this nature, are called meteorites.

Meteorites may be divided into two main classes—the irons, which are almost pure nickel-iron, and the stones. Any meteorite is characterized by a dark, smooth crust caused by the fusion of the outer part.

Meteors may be observed on any clear, moonless night at an average rate of about ten an hour. At times there occur meteor showers, when meteors are seen with much greater frequency and appear to radiate from a particular part of the sky which is called the radiant. This is an effect of perspective, the radiant being the vanishing point of the parallel tracks of the meteors. Meteor showers usually repeat themselves annually, and have nearly always been associated with the orbits of comets. When the earth passes through or near the orbit of a comet it intercepts straggling particles which cause meteors. The principal meteor showers for the northern hemisphere are listed below.

The study of meteors and meteorites adds to our knowledge of the nature and origin of the solar system and also to our knowledge of the earth's outer atmosphere.

BANKS IN CANADA AND THEIR BRANCHES

BANK OF CANADA

The Bank of Canada was incorporated under the Bank of Canada Act of 1934 as Canada's central bank. The institution opened for business on March 11, 1935. All of the capital stock of the Bank is owned by the Government of Canada.

The sole right to issue paper money for circulation in Canada is vested in the Bank. The Bank acts as the fiscal agent for the Government of Canada in respect of the management of the public debt of Canada. It does not accept deposits from individuals nor does it compete with the chartered banks in the commercial banking field. The Bank is not required to maintain gold or foreign exchange reserves against its liabilities.

The Bank is able to control the rate of expansion of the total assets and deposit liabilities of the banking system as a whole through its determination of the total amount of cash reserves available to the chartered banks as a group. The chief method by which the Bank alters the level of cash reserves and hence the total of chartered bank deposits is by purchases and sales of Government of Canada securities. The Bank may make loans or advances to chartered banks or Quebec savings banks on the pledge of certain classes of securities, and to the Government of Canada or any province under certain conditions. It also enters into purchase and resale agreements with money market dealers.

The Industrial Development Bank, a subsidiary of the Bank of Canada, supplements the activities of other lenders by providing capital assistance to small enterprises.

THE INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT BANK

This bank provides financing, chiefly in the form of term loans, to new or existing businesses in Canada which may reasonably be expected to prove successful but might not otherwise be able to get credit on reasonable terms and conditions. The Bank is not intended to compete with the Chartered Banks and other lending institutions, but rather to supplement the facilities offered by these institutions.

It may lend to firms engaged in an enterprise in which is carried on any industry, trade or other business undertaking of any kind.

The Bank may accept any form of collateral security including real property, and its loans are usually for capital assistance rather than working funds, and for a period of several years.

The Industrial Development Bank is a subsidiary of the Bank of Canada, and was created by Act of Parliament on August 15th, 1944.

The authorized capital is seventy-five million of which fifty million has been subscribed by the Bank of Canada and is fully paid. By virtue of its power to issue bonds and debentures and other provisions of its Act of Incorporation the aggregate of the total direct liabilities of the Bank, including bonds and debentures issued by the Bank, and of the total contingent liabilities of the Bank in the form of guarantees given or underwriting agreement entered into by it, shall not at any time exceed ten times the aggregate amount of the paid-up capital and the Reserve Fund.

The President of the Bank is the Governor of the Bank of Canada. The Head Office is in Ottawa, and the General Manager's Office is in Montreal.

CHARTERED BANKS

Chartered banks in Canada are incorporated by Special Act of the Canadian Parliament and governed by the Bank Act (chapter 87 of the Statutes of 1966-67), which continues the charters in force until July 1, 1977. The Act specifies the business and powers of the banks and the types of transactions in which they may legally engage.

Banks may make loans on many types of security, or without security. They are prohibited from lending money upon the security of shares of the capital stock of a bank. They may lend on mortgages and hypothecs subject to certain limitations.

A bank is not permitted to issue or re-issue its notes payable to bearer and intended for circulation. Notes formerly issued by the banks for circulation in Canada and outstanding are redeemable by Bank of Canada upon presentation. Notes formerly issued by the banks for circulation outside Canada and outstanding are redeemable by the issuing bank upon presentation. Banks may issue subordinated debentures subject to certain limitations with the maximum amount limited in relation to capital and rest fund.

The shares of capital stock of a bank may have a par value of any multiple of $1 not exceeding $10 and in case of any new issue by a bank, its shareholders have certain clearly defined rights as provided in the Act. No liability attaches to the ownership of bank shares other than any amounts remaining unpaid in respect of the subscription price of the shares.

The Bank Act embodies many provisions designed for the protection of creditors and shareholders including requirements relating to minimum cash reserves, shareholders' audits by public accountants and Government inspection. No chartered bank in Canada has failed since 1923.

TRUST COMPANIES AND LOAN COMPANIES IN CANADA

Trust companies act as executors, trustees and administrators under Wills and trust agreements, as agents for the administration of estates and trusts and as financial agents for individuals and corporations. They also manage property and investments including pension funds of corporations, personal retirement plans, receive money for deposits and guaranteed investments for fixed terms and accept money for investment in their own investment funds. Funds in the care of trust companies are invested in residential and other mortgages, and in Federal, provincial, municipal bonds and corporate securities. A few trust companies accept appointments as authorized trustees in bankruptcy.

The principal function of loan companies is the loaning of funds on first mortgage security, the money thus made available for development purposes being obtained mainly by the sale of debentures to the investing public and by savings department deposits.

SPECIAL NOTES RE TREATIES, ETC.

BRITISH PREFERENTIAL TARIFF

Section 5 of the Customs Tariff Act provides that with certain exceptions, goods entitled to entry under the British Preferential Tariff are subject to a discount of ten per cent on the amount of duty computed under such tariff when the ad valorem rate of duty exceeds fifteen per cent, or in the case of a specific duty or a specific and ad valorem duty combined the computed rate exceeds fifteen per cent ad valorem. The exceptions, to which the discount does not apply are sugar, tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, wines, malt liquors, spirits, spirituous liquors, liquid medicines and articles containing alcohol, imported goods which have the benefit of reductions provided for in the Canada-West Indies Trade Agreement, 1926, and goods on which the rate of customs duty under the British Preferential Tariff is the same as the rate of customs duty under the Most-Favoured-Nation Tariff.

AUSTRALIAN TRADE AGREEMENT

Goods the growth, produce or manufacture of Australia enumerated in Schedule "A" of this Agreement enjoy the benefits indicated in the said Schedule and also enjoy the benefit of the lowest rates of customs duty applicable to similar goods imported from any other country. Certain margins of preference must be maintained between the Most-Favoured-Nation rates and those provided in Schedule "A". To enjoy these tariff advantages, the goods are required to be shipped direct from Australia into Canada except in special cases where goods are shipped from Australia to Canada on a through bill of lading and the Australian Government certifies that direct shipment to Canada is not reasonably practicable. All other goods, being the growth, produce or manufacture of Australia, when imported into Canada enjoy the benefits of the British Preferential Tariff. Notwithstanding the provisions of the customs laws and regulations of Canada or other provisions of the Agreement, dried currants and raisins that are the growth or produce of Australia and that are not imported direct into Canada shall be subject to Most-Favoured-Nation Tariff rates.

To all other goods, the produce or manufacture of New Zealand, the benefits of the British Preferential Tariff are granted. To enjoy the tariff advantages under this Agreement goods are required to be shipped direct into Canada from New Zealand, except in special cases where goods are shipped from New Zealand to Canada on a through bill of lading and the New Zealand Government certifies that direct shipment to Canada is not reasonably practicable. Attention is drawn to the fact that, under Section 3 of the Customs Tariff Act, New Zealand is entitled to the benefits of the British Preferential Tariff, and hence New Zealand goods imported from a country entitled to the benefits of the British Preferential Tariff, and not direct as provided in the Agreement, are entitled to British Preferential Tariff rates. The benefits of the Agreement also apply to goods the produce or manufacture of Western Samoa and the Cook Islands. Goods, the produce or manufacture of New Zealand, are entitled to as favourable rates as are granted to any foreign country.

WEST INDIES TRADE AGREEMENT

Goods other than those provided for in Schedule "A" shall not be subject to more than fifty per cent of the duties imposed on similar goods under the General Tariff, with the exception of tobacco, cigars, cigarettes and spirituous or alcoholic liquors. Attention is drawn to the fact that the Colonies mentioned in this Agreement are entitled to the benefits of the British Preferential Tariff. ANTI-DUMPING DUTY

Revised anti-dumping legislation came into force on January 1, 1969.

The Anti-dumping Act provides in brief that where goods are dumped, i.e. the export price is less than the normal value, and such dumping has caused, is causing, or is likely to cause material injury to the production of like goods in Canada, or, has materially retarded or is materially retarding the establishment of the production in Canada of like goods as determined by the Anti-dumping Tribunal, there shall be levied, collected and paid an anti-dumping duty. This anti-dumping duty is in an amount equal to the margin of dumping of the entered goods.

For full information the complete text of the Anti-dumping Act may be obtained from the Public Printing and Stationery Department.

Regulations, exemptions and determinations under the Anti-dumping Act are published in Memoranda Series D41 of the Department of National Revenue, Customs and Excise.

Raising Prices: Removal of Duty.

In the event of the producers of goods in Canada increasing prices in consequence of the imposition of any duty or using any such duty to maintain prices at levels deemed by the Governor in Council to be higher than should prevail having regard to general economic conditions in the country, the Governor in Council may reduce or remove such duty. This does not apply to agricultural products.

The Minister may make such regulations, if any, as are deemed necessary for carrying out these provisions.

COMBINE CLAUSE

Whenever the Governor in Council deems it to be in the public interest to inquire into any conspiracy, combination, agreement or arrangement alleged to exist among manufacturers or dealers in any article of commerce to unduly promote the advantage of the manufacturers or dealers in such article at the expense of the consumers, the Governor in Council may commission or empower any judge of the Supreme Court, or of the Exchequer Court of Canada, or of any superior court or county court in Canada, to hold an inquiry in a summary way and report to the Governor in Council whether such conspiracy, combination, agreement or arrangement exists.

The judge may compel the attendance of witnesses and examine them under oath and require the production of books and papers, and shall have such other necessary powers as are conferred upon him by the Governor in Council for the purpose of such inquiry.

If the judge reports that such conspiracy, combination, agreement or arrangement exists in respect of such article, the Governor in Council may admit the article free of duty, or so reduce the duty thereon as to give to the public the benefit of reasonable competition in the article, if it appears to the Governor in Council that such disadvantage to the consumer is facilitated by the duties of Customs imposed on a like article.

4. The Deputy Minister may, upon application to him in the prescribed form and on presentation to him of a bond of a guarantee company, whose bonds are approved by the Department of Finance, or other security acceptable to him and in such amount as he may determine, issue a general authorization to the person so applying to transport goods in bond and upon such terms and conditions as the Deputy Minister may prescribe.

The amount of security shall be calculated on the basis of $1,000 per vehicle but in no case shall the security be for less than $3,000 nor exceed $25,000. For security purposes a tractor, trailer or semi-trailer is each considered to be a separate vehicle. Where security is in the form of a guarantee company bond the bond shall remain in full force, virtue and effect unless revoked by the Department for cause, but the surety may at any time give sixty (60) days prior written notice of cancellation to the Department.

Note: Where fully registered Government of Canada bonds are submitted as security they shall be accompanied by a fully completed form Y76 which may be obtained from a Collector of Customs and Excise

16. The Collector at a Customs port may issue a single trip authorization to a motor vehicle operator who occasionally transports goods in bond provided the operator:

(1) applies to the Collector on form E 22 which is obtainable from the Collector; and

(2) files with the Collector a bond of an approved guarantee company in the prescribed form, or other form of security acceptable to the Collector, in an amount determined by the Collector which shall not be for less than $1,000 nor exceed $10,000.

17. Operators of commercial motor vehicles which have been manufactured or duty and tax paid in Canada may transport goods in bond under general or single trip authorization;

(1) between sufferance and/or bonded warehouses within a port area.

(6) from a railway, steamship or airlines sufferance warehouse at one port to a railway, steamship or airlines sufferance warehouse at another port for export.

(8) in transit through Canada.

(9) from any customs warehouse for export.

18. (1) Operators of commercial motor vehicles which have not been duty and tax paid may transport goods in bond under general or single trip authorization;

Transshipment must be made under customs supervision directly from the inbound vehicle to a vehicle, railway car, vessel or aircraft operated by the second carrier or into a sufferance warehouse approved by the Department.

(b) from a frontier port to a highway sufferance warehouse subject to the provisions of section 8 (2) of these regulations.

(c) from any customs warehouse for export.

(2) (a) With reference to the provisions of section 9 (c), the movement of a vehicle from the port of entry to the port of exit actually involves two separate international movements: e.g. inward and outward. Consequently, domestic goods for discharge in Canada may be loaded on a non-duty and tax paid vehicle;

(i) on one occasion anywhere en route between the first port of discharge and the last point where imported goods are discharged or where domestic goods are loaded for export, and

(ii) on one occasion anywhere en route between this latter point and the port of exit.

Under no circumstances may a vehicle which has not been duty and tax paid proceed beyond the last point where imported goods were discharged for the sole purpose of loading domestic goods for discharge in Canada.

(b) A vehicle operated under Post Audit Customs Control which is to deliver its cargo or a portion thereof to one consignee after Customs release may pickup, at the highway sufferance warehouse where release was effected, goods previously cleared that were brought into Canada by a unit operated by the same carrier, for delivery to that same consignee. As an example, a non-duty-paid unit that is to deliver its international cargo to ABC Company after clearance may pickup cleared goods at the sufferance warehouse, consigned to ABC Company, which were brought to the warehouse previously by a unit operated by the same carrier. This procedure does in no way affect normal one delivery restrictions.

(c) (i) Carriers operating under Post Audit Customs Control who transfer trailers which have not been duty and tax paid to non-audit interline carriers shall notify the Director, Port Administration Division, Ottawa, of the name and address of each interline carrier.

(ii) Such interline carriers may not utilize trailers which have not been duty and tax paid for the transportation of domestic goods from point to point in Canada without prior permission from the Director, Port Administration Division.

(d) Any contravention of these regulations will result in the assessment of penalties as provided for under authority of the Customs Act.

19. Notwithstanding the provision of section 17 and 18, the following articles may be manifested on any interior port for clearance if entry is not made at the frontier.

(3) Spirits or raw leaf tobacco consigned to and for use in production by licensed excise manufactories.

20. Goods transported by operators of motor vehicles which are not authorized to carry in bond goods in Canada, shall be duly entered at Customs at the frontier port of arrival, otherwise they must be forwarded by a bonded carrier to the customs port of clearance. In bond goods carried beyond the frontier by a bonded carrier may not be transferred to a non-bonded carrier for furtherance in bond to destination.

GENERAL

21. Goods arriving in Canada in bonded vehicles operated by non-audit carriers or in compartments therein, deemed secure by the Collector of Customs and Excise at the frontier port of arrival, shall be scaled with Canadian Customs seals at the expense of the parties accommodated and may be permitted to be transported in bond to an approved highway sufferance warehouse under these regulations without unloading for examination. Goods which the Collector considers cannot be sealed securely shall be checked against the manifest, and shall be unloaded for this purpose at the expense of the carrier, if, in the Collector's opinion, a satisfactory check cannot otherwise be made.

22. Where motor vehicles which cannot be sealed arrive at a frontier port with large pieces of machinery or other items of weight and size that cannot be unloaded without the loss of considerable time and labour, but which can be readily checked as to identity and quantity on the vehicle, the Collector may permit the load to go forward in bond without seals.

23. Where the nature of the goods or the type of vehicle used does not permit the merchandise being placed under seal, or unreasonable time and labour would be involved in unloading and checking the goods, or for any other reason, the Collector may, at his discretion, permit the load to be moved in bond under the convoy of a customs officer, at the expense of the party accommodated.

24. Bonded carriers transporting in bond goods from a frontier port of entry to a highway sufferance warehouse may discharge part cargoes at any approved highway sufferance warehouse en route to final destination provided that the goods are discharged from the motor vehicle during regular warehouse hours under the supervision of a customs officer who will reseal the vehicle.

26. (1) Canadian manufactured or duty-paid bonded highway vehicles need not be sealed for movements in Canada when the shipments have been checked against the manifest and the in bond goods may be forwarded in these vehicles with domestic or duty-paid goods.

(2) Less than truckload shipments which have been checked at the frontier or interior port of lading may be transshipped at various bonded carriers' terminals to other bonded carriers if manifested by the original bonded carrier on port of destination. In such cases, the receiving bonded carrier is held responsible for delivery of the goods to Customs, failing this, for the duty and taxes applicable thereto. The foregoing applies irrespective of the number of bonded carriers participating in the movement of the in bond shipment to destination.

27. Goods ex-vessel may be permitted to go forward unchecked in unsealed vehicles to a highway sufferance warehouse. The carrier will be held responsible for producing these goods to Customs and Short Landed Certificates are not to be issued in respect of this particular type of movement.

28. (1) In bond goods for export transported in an unsealed vehicle of a non-audit carrier shall be checked against the manifest by a customs officer at the frontier port of exit.

(2) A carrier who has been issued a general or single trip authorization may, in addition to the original load taken for export from a warehouse, pick up additional goods for export from warehouses at other customs ports en route to the frontier port of exit.

29. In respect to vehicles identified in accordance with the provisions of section 6, the onus is on the operators to submit to the RCM Police or Customs, when requested, evidence that the equipment is duty and tax paid. The symbols "Canada Customs Bonded Carrier" are to be displayed in legible characters on both sides of trucks, tractors, trailers, semi-trailers and boxes. Chassis or bogie units may, if necessary, have a tag or plate of sufficient size affixed thereto for this purpose.

30. Any change in the number of vehicles which serves to increase the fleet must be reported to the Department immediately. Where a transportation company has furnished a maximum bond of $25,000 no such report is necessary.

31. Vehicles operated by non-audit carriers will be issued Commercial Vehicle Permit form E 50B at the time of arrival at the frontier port of entry and the permit must be surrendered at the port of exit. A separate permit will be issued for the tractor, trailer, semi-trailer, chassis and/or bogie and box.

32. (1) In the event that an accident or other emergency, occurs in the course of transporting goods in bond, which requires that customs seals be broken, the driver of the motor vehicle shall report the accident or emergency forthwith by telephone, telegraph or other expeditious means to the Collector at the nearest customs port, or, if a Collector cannot be located, to the RCM Police, and shall request the attendance of an officer.

(2) In such case the supervising officer shall endorse the customs manifest(s) carried by the driver with particulars of the accident or emergency and details of the loss or damage to the goods in bond.

(3) Any goods in bond, which, as a result of the accident or emergency, cannot be forwarded immediately, shall be stored in accordance with directions of the Collector.

(4) Notwithstanding subsection (1) goods carried in unsealed vehicles may be transferred to another vehicle without benefit of supervision.

(5) Any person requiring the attendance of an officer under this section shall pay the special service charges prescribed by the Special Service Regulations.

33. Canadian manufactured or duty-paid vehicles engaged in commercial operations which are exported temporarily are to be documented on Form Y38.

34. Identification form Y38 shall be used to document vehicles employed in the transportation of goods in transit through the United States and, if necessary, separate Form Y38 may be issued to cover tractors and semi-trailers; trailers conveying the goods in transit may be detached from the tractors which originally moved them out of Canada and attached to other Canadian tractors in the United States, provided that the trailer and tractor units are documented by separate Form Y38; the use of non-duty-paid tractors for the purpose of hauling trailers moving goods in transit through the United States for any part of the journey is prohibited, and any violation of this regulation shall result in the privilege of transportation of goods in transit being denied the offending carrier. In the event that accessories are installed on duty and tax paid vehicles, the Form Y38 must be surrendered on the vehicle's return to Canada and be replaced by a new form.

35. In the case of accident or other emergency while en route through United States territory, the driver shall report the circumstances to the nearest United States Customs Officer or State Police, and shall request the United States official to endorse a copy of the manifest indicating the nature and circumstances of the accident or emergency. When the goods finally reach the Canadian Border they shall be checked in detail at the expense of the operator.

36. The transportation of bonded goods from a sufferance warehouse to an examining warehouse for appraisal and examination shall be performed by a carrier under contract to the Department and such carrier shall not be required to be bonded under these regulations.

37. Customs seals, serially numbered, are available on requisition, for use at all customs offices and shall be used wherever seals are applied and a charge of 25 cents made for each truck, trailer or semi-trailer, irrespective of the number of seals used to close the various openings on each vehicle. The charge shall be collected from the parties accommodated at the time of sealing, except where monthly settlements are made by trucking companies engaged in scheduled operations.

38. The combined Canada-United States in transit manifest US 7512B/Canada A8½ will be used for the documentation of goods carried in transit through either country. The in-transit manifest will be validated and the vehicles will be sealed only by the Customs service of the country through which the vehicle is moving, the contents of in transit vehicles will not require examination unless the Customs seals have been broken.

39. A vehicle equipped with a two-way radio installation or mobile telephone may be permitted entry into Canada under vehicle permit, provided that the applicant for the permit produces a written authorization signed by the Controller of Telecommunications, Department of Transport, Ottawa, authorizing him to use the equipment in Canada; where such authorization is not produced, the vehicle may be permitted to proceed only after the installation has been placed under customs seal in such a manner as to prevent its operation in Canada; on report outwards the seal will be removed by the customs officers, but should the seal be found to have been broken or removed, the vehicle will be subject to seizure; the fact that the vehicle is equipped with a two-way radio or mobile telephone installation shall be noted on the permit form.

40. (1) A tractor which has not been duty and tax paid cannot be used to haul a trailer which it did not pick up at the frontier examining warehouse or originally bring into Canada for the delivery of merchandise at an inland point.

(2) Where a vehicle imported into Canada pursuant to these regulations requires to be repaired in Canada, the person to whom a commercial vehicle permit has been issued for the vehicle may import such replacement parts, not including tires, as are required to be installed on the vehicle free of duty and taxes, if:

(a) he completes temporary admission permit (form E 29B) in respect of the parts,

(b) any parts which are replaced by parts imported pursuant to this section are exported from Canada in the repaired vehicle or abandoned to the Crown pursuant to section 77 of the Customs Act,

(c) he surrenders the temporary admission permit to the Collector of Customs and Excise on the exportation of the vehicle.

41. In the case where a Canadian vehicle abroad requires repairs or the necessity of accessories being added to the vehicle, the provisions of the regulations in respect of the Repair, Addition to or Processing of Canadian Goods Abroad, are to apply.

Intransit manifest forms US 7512B/Canada A8½ may be obtained from Collectors of Customs at either United States or Canadian border ports, for a nominal charge.

43. Transportation companies may, if they so desire, utilize private printing of their own form A 8A Advice Note Manifests. Although prior approval of the printing of these forms is not necessary, they must conform with the specimen.

44. The form A 8A manifest is to consist of six (6) part carbon interleaved or No Carbon Required paper pasted sets 8 x 5½ inches, with all parts perforated at the stub. The National Gallery of Canada was established under the National Gallery of Canada Act (S.C. 1912-13, Chapter 33, later the National Gallery Act, R.S.C. 1952, Chapter 186). The beginnings of the National Gallery of Canada are associated with the founding of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts in 1880. The Marquess of Lorne, then Governor-General, had recommended, and assisted the founding of the Academy. Among the three tasks he assigned to that institution, one charged them with the establishment of a National Gallery at the seat of government. Lord Lorne also selected a group of pictures which formed the nucleus of the permanent collection. Until 1907, the National Gallery was directly under the control of a Minister of the Crown. In that year, the government appointed an Advisory Arts Council of laymen to administer grants to the National Gallery. In 1910, the first full-time curator was appointed. In 1913, when the National Gallery was incorporated by Act of Parliament, responsibility for administration was vested in a Board of Trustees appointed by the Governor in Council. The function of the Board was to administer and manage the Gallery, develop and conserve the national art collections, to encourage public interest in the arts and to promote the interests of art throughout the country. Today, the National Gallery is administered by the Board of Trustees of the National Museums of Canada, consisting of fourteen members representing all sections of Canada. In 1951, responsibility for the Gallery was transferred from the Minister of Public Works to the Minister of Citizenship and Immigration, and in 1963 to the Secretary of State.

The permanent collection consists mainly of painting, sculpture, prints and drawings from the European and Canadian schools. In 1957, the development of a Conservation and Scientific Research Division, as applied to works of art, was begun and is now the National Conservation Research Laboratory.

The National Gallery of Canada carries out an extensive programme. Exhibitions of art collections from abroad, from its own holdings, and from private and public sources are organized and circulated in Canada and abroad. Educational services are offered to the general public across Canada. Among these are included films, publications and reproductions of works of art. Lecture tours are also organized. A tour program of the National Gallery collections is available to visitors to, and residents of, Ottawa.

THE NATIONAL MUSEUM OF MAN

The National Museum of Canada originated in the Geological Survey of Canada which was founded in 1842 by Sir William Logan. Formerly the Victoria Memorial Museum, authority to designate it as the "National Museum of Canada" was given by Order in Council P.C. 2615 of January, 1927.

In 1957 the Museum was divided into two branches —the Human History Branch which carries out research and is responsible for exhibits in the field of archaeology, history, folklore and ethnology and the Natural History Branch, which has the same responsibilities in the fields of natural history. In 1966 a Science and Technology Branch was established, which conducts studies in the areas of physical sciences and technology with emphasis on items of national interest, including land transportation, agricultural technology, air transportation, chemistry, communications, energy, industry and mining.

In 1968 the three branches were brought under the administration of the new National Museums of Canada.

The National Museum of Man is concerned with the archaeology, ethnology, physical anthropology, ethnolinguistics, ethnohistory, folklore and history of Canada. These study collections, which are open to research by properly qualified students, include 601,047 archaeological specimens, 30,762 ethnological specimens, and 2,833 in physical anthropology. Folk-song collections include recordings of 4,500 Indian, 14,000 French-Canadian, 5,000 British-Canadian songs and 2,448 new Canadian folksongs. The historical collection now being assembled totals 10,802 specimens. Scientific and educational publications are available for distribution. The Canadian War Museum, a component of the National Museum of Man, is concerned with research collections, exhibits, and publications in Canadian military history.

The large collections of these departments, housed in 68 galleries, illustrate man's life, skills and arts through many centuries and in many lands—from the stone ages through the historical periods. The Near Eastern galleries document his earliest attempts to achieve an ordered, sedentary existence particularly in Egypt, Mesopotamia and neighbouring lands. Objects from Crete, Cyprus, Greece and Italy demonstrate the important pre-classical and classical heritage. The fine collection of Greek vases is particularly significant. The cultural history of Europe through the mediaeval and into the modern period is set forth in arms and armour, sculpture, ceramics, silver and glass, furniture, textiles, and costumes. Canada's cultural past is illustrated by textiles, furniture and wood carving in the main building and by paintings, prints and memorabilia in the Sigmund Samuel Canadiana Collection. The Far Eastern collection is of great importance with stress laid on Chinese bronzes, ceramics, jades, lacquers and tomb groups. The Ethnological collection is very large, illustrating the cultures of the American aborigines in North, Central and South America but containing important materials from all over the world.

Continually changing Special Exhibitions utilize both loan materials and objects from the permanent collections to focus public attention on particular aspects of man's culture.

EARTH SCIENCES DEPARTMENTS

Chief Mineralogist—V. B. Meen, M.A., Ph.D.; Mineralogy—Curator, J. A. Mandarino, B.S., M.S., Ph.D.; Geology—Curator, W. M. Tovell, B.A., M.S., Ph.D.

These departments have four galleries: (1) Physical Geology, (2) Mineral Deposits, (3) Precambrian Geology, and (4) Mineralogy. The first three were completed in November, 1962, with the aid of funds generously provided by the Trustees of the J. P. Bickell Foundation. The Gallery of Physical Geology is devoted to the features of the Toronto region, glaciation, rock formations, and the origin of the earth. It also contains the six-foot diameter Bickell Globe which divides to show the earth's interior. Meteorites and meteoritic craters are exhibited in this area. The Gallery of Mineral Deposits explains the origin and environment of economic mineral occurrences in general, and specific examples are given from eight mining districts of Ontario. A wall map 16 feet high and 20 feet wide shows, with 400 small electric lights, the distribution of 30 important mineral products of Canada. The lights turn on and off automatically, in sequence. The Gallery of Precambrian Geology features a model to show the enormity of Precambrian time compared to total earth history, and exhibits portray the complexity and importance of Precambrian Geology. This Gallery also contains an exhibit of highgrade gold ores.

The Mineralogy Gallery, housing one of the world's important mineral collections, has been re-designed under a grant from the International Nickel Company of Canada Limited, and re-opened in Nov. 1967.

LIFE SCIENCES DEPARTMENTS

Chief Biologist, L. S. Russell, M.A., Ph.D.; Birds—Curator, J. C. Barlow, A.B., A.M., Ph.D.; Mammals—Curator, R. L. Peterson, M.Sc., Ph.D.; Fishes—Curator, W. B. Scott, Ph.D.; Invertebrates—Curator, G. B. Wiggins, M.A., Ph.D.; Fossil Vertebrates—Curator—A. G. Edmund, M.A., Ph.D.; Fossil Invertebrates—Curator—D. H. Collins, Ph.D.

The gallery of Canadian animals features a reasonably complete collection of well-displayed mammals and birds. Numerous habitat groups and special displays explain life histories and other features of interest. The recently-built gallery of fishes has a colourful systematic series, plus several excellent habitat groups and models of commercial fishing equipment. Displays in the gallery of foreign animals include representatives of most groups of mammals, birds and insects. The three galleries in the palaeontology section contain many rare and unique specimens. The Hall of Fossil Invertebrates features the systematic collection in a recently-constructed environment. The dinosaur gallery features many complete skeletons and type specimens from the Cretaceous of Western Canada. A recent addition to the gallery of fossil mammals and fishes is an exhibit of bones recovered from the tar pits of Peru by a museum expedition. The gallery is now being renovated. In 1962 a gallery of reptiles, with more than 150 specimens, was opened. It includes a series of dioramas with lifelike habitats and backgrounds. New dioramas depict the earth's major biomes. The three now completed illustrate the Canadian Arctic, Galapagos Islands and South India tea country.

The scope and authenticity of the gallery displays are made possible by the continuous study of the vast library and research collections maintained in the departmental laboratories. The collections are also used by scholars the world over, being especially rich in birds, mammals, spiders, aquatic insects, Cretaceous dinosaurs and lower Paleozoic invertebrates.

FOREIGN PUBLISHERS SHOWING CANADIAN REPRESENTATIVES

For the reader's convenience, each publisher is followed by code letters indicating the Canadian firm that acts as agent.

Most Canadian representatives will sell direct to large libraries but many will refer smaller orders, especially from individuals, to booksellers. For individuals and all those who prefer the convenience of ordering from one source a directory of members of THE CANADIAN BOOKSELLERS ASSOCIATION appears on page 313.

The Institute is a private organization supported by some Government grants, United Appeals and public subscriptions. Its Emplyoment Department trains and places blind men and women in general business and industrial employment. CNIB also operates sheltered shops for blind persons who cannot work in regular industry. It controls tobacco stands, news stands and industrial cafeterias, managed by the sightless. It gives instruction in Braille reading and writing, typewriting and handicrafts. CNIB supplies raw materials at cost and provides facilities for the sale of articles made by home workers. It maintains libraries of Braille and Talking Books. CNIB maintains a year-round recreation program as a means of adjustment and development for the blind. Every division has a social service department and in some of the larger cities there are residence and general service centres for the blind. The Institute is also active in preventing blindness wherever possible. In 1962 the CNIB established The E. A. Baker Foundation for Prevention of Blindness to provide scholarships, fellowships and specified grants to ophthalmologists and their allied services for research, equipment and other facilities not available through regular channels.

The Eye Bank of Canada, providing healthy tissue for the sight-restoring corneal transplant, is a CNIB service.

1968 was the 50th anniversary of CNIB service to the blind of Canada.

WORLD ORGANIZATIONS

THE UNITED NATIONS

The United Nations is a world organization for the maintenance of peace and security and for the promotion of the welfare of humanity. The Charter was signed on June 26, 1945 and came into force on October 24, 1945.

Through a series of conferences, at Dumbarton Oaks (August-October 1944), at Yalta (February 1945) and at San Francisco (April-June 1945), the Charter of the United Nations was produced.

The main organs of the United Nations are: the General Assembly, the Security Council, the Economic and Social Council, the Trusteeship Council, the International Court of Justice, the Secretariat. Subsidiary organs are established as and when required.

The General Assembly is the main deliberative organ of the United Nations; it has the right to discuss and make recommendations on all matters within the scope of the United Nations Charter and to discuss the powers and functions of other United Nations organs, which submit annual reports to it; and it considers and approves the budget for the entire Organization. All members—126 as of March 1969—are represented in the General Assembly. Each has one vote, and all votes are equal. Important questions—such as the maintenance of international peace and security, election of members to certain United Nations organs, membership in the United Nations, operation of the trusteeship system and budgetary questions—are decided by a two-thirds majority of the members present and voting; others, by a simple majority. The Assembly meets regularly once a year, but special sessions may be held at the request of the Security Council or a majority of the members. The Assembly in November 1950 decided that if the Security Council, because of lack of unanimity of the permanent members, fails to exercise its primary responsibility for maintaining international peace and security in any case where there appears to be a threat to peace, breach of the peace, or act of aggression, the Assembly may consider the matter immediately, in emergency special session—on 24 hours notice if necessary—with a view to making recommendations to Members for collective measures, including, in the case of a breach of the peace or act of aggression, the use of armed force when necessary to restore peace. Five special sessions—two on the question of Palestine, one on the situation in Tunisia, one on the UN financing, and one on Southwest Africa and peace-keeping operations of the UN—and several emergency special sessions—on the Suez crisis, on Hungary, on the situation in Lebanon and Jordan, on the Congo, and on the Middle East crisis, have been held. The Assembly deals with its work through seven Main Committees on which all Members have the right to be represented: First Committee (Political and Security, including the regulation of armaments); Special Political Committee; Second Committee (Economic and Financial); Third Committee (Social, Humanitarian, and Cultural); Fourth Committee (Trusteeship, including non-self-governing territories); Fifth Committee (Administrative and Budgetary); Sixth Committee (Legal). In addition, the UN Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East and the Office of the UN High Commissioner for Refugees, among other bodies, report to the General Assembly. The Assembly has also established procedural, standing and other ad hoc committees. Yvon Beaulne is Canada's permanent representative at United Nations Headquarters in New York.

The Security Council is composed of five permanent members, China, France, the United Kingdom, the United States and the Soviet Union and 10 non-permanent members elected by the General Assembly for a term of two years. The principal function of the Security Council is to examine questions endangering the maintenance of international peace and security, and to adopt and apply means to solve dangerous international situations or disputes. Each member of the Security Council has one vote. Decisions on procedural matters are made by an affirmative vote of nine members. On all other matters an affirmative vote of nine members, including the concurring votes of the five permanent members, is required (unless, in certain circumstances, a permanent member abstains from voting). Thus, the negative vote of one permanent member is sufficient to prevent the taking of a substantive decision. This is the "veto" power.

The Charter provides that a Military Staff Committee, consisting of the Chiefs of Staff of the permanent members of the Security Council or their representatives is to advise and assist the Security Council on all questions relating to the Council's military requirements for the maintenance of international peace and security, the regulation of armaments or possible disarmament.

On 11 January 1952 the General Assembly established the Disarmament Commission to replace the Atomic Energy Commission and the Commission for Conventional Armaments and to combine the work of both. The Disarmament Commission, since 1959 has been composed of all the members of the United Nations.

The Economic and Social Council is composed of representatives of twenty-seven Member States elected by the General Assembly for a term of three years. Its function is to study and report on social and economic problems throughout the world, and to suggest means for their solution. Its decisions are taken by a simple majority vote. It is authorized to enter into agreements with specialized agencies for the purpose of bringing them into relationship with the United Nations. Such agreements are subject to approval by the General Assembly and the appropriate body of the specialized agency concerned. Agreements with the following agencies are in force: International Labour Organization (ILO); Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO); United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO); World Health Organization (WHO) International Bank for Reconstruction and Development; International Development Association (IDA); International Finance Corporation (IFC); International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO); International Monetary Fund (IMF); Universal Postal Union (UPU); International Telecommunication Union (ITU); World Meteorological Organization (WMO); and Inter-Governmental Maritime Consultative Organization (IMCO). An agreement has also been authorized with the International Trade Organization (ITO) if and when that body comes into existence. Though establishment of ITO and the bringing into operation of the Havana Charter, on which it was to be based, have not taken place, one of the main objectives of that Charter has been embodied in an international commercial treaty, known as the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

An International Atomic Energy Agency, to promote the peaceful uses of atomic energy, was formally established in July 1957. The Agency's working relationship with the United Nations has been determined in an agreement approved by the UN General Assembly and the Agency's General Conference in the autumn of 1957. This agreement provides that the Agency shall report annually to the General Assembly, and in addition submit reports to the Security Council "when appropriate" and to the Economic and Social Council on matters within its competence.

The Economic and Social Council is aided in its work by several expert bodies, called commissions and sub-commissions, which keep international problems in their respective fields under review. These bodies cover such questions as statistical, human rights, social development, population, status of women and narcotic drugs. The Council has also set up regional economic commissions for Europe, for Asia and the Far East, for Latin America, and for Africa. The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) also reports to the Council.

The Trusteeship Council consists of Members of the United Nations administering territories under trusteeship, those permanent members of the Security Council which do not administer trust territories, and as many other Members elected by the General Assembly for three-year terms as may be necessary to ensure that the total number of members in the Trusteeship Council is equally divided between those which administer trust territories and those which do not. Its decisions are taken by a simple majority vote.

The Trusteeship Council examines reports on Trust Territories annually submitted by the administering authorities; accepts petitions and examines them in consultation with the authorities; and provides for special or periodic visits to the Trust Territories.

The International Court of Justice is the principal judicial organ of the United Nations. It consists of fifteen judges elected for a term of nine years by the General Assembly and by the Security Council voting independently.

The Secretariat, under a Secretary-General appointed by the General Assembly upon the recommendation of the Security Council, serves the United Nations. It is organized into a number of administrative units. Four of these are known as Offices of the Secretary-General because the work they perform engages the Secretary-General's responsibility in a more direct and personal way. These are the Executive Office of the Secretary-General, the Office of Legal Affairs, the Controller's Office and the Office of Personnel. There are also two Under-Secretaries for Special Political Affairs. Three of the units are Departments. These are the Department of Political and Security Council Affairs, the Department of Economic and Social Affairs and the Department of Trusteeship and Non-Self-Governing Territories. In addition, there is an Office of Public Information, an Office of Conference Services and an Office of General Services. The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) and the United Nations Development Programme, which replaces the previous Technical Assistance Board and the United Nations Special Fund, also have their offices at headquarters. A new organ of the General Assembly is the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development. Its function is to help promote and better the conditions of international trade, particularly with a view to accelerating the economic growth of developing countries. Also established by the General Assembly, the United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO), an autonomous body, promotes industrialization and co-ordinates activities undertaken by the United Nations family in this field.

INTERNATIONAL LABOUR ORGANIZATION

Headquarters: Geneva, Switzerland

The International Labour Organization was set up in 1919 under the Peace Treaties concluding the First World War, to promote social justice and improve labour conditions through international action. It is a tripartite organization (Government, employees and workers) and is a Specialized Agency of the United Nations, with a membership of 118 countries. Its organs are the International Labour Conference which normally meets annually; the International Labour Office; and the Governing Body which meets several times a year. National delegations to the Conference comprise, in addition to Government representation, direct representation of organized employers and workers from each member country. Since establishment, the International Labour Conference has adopted 126 conventions or draft treaties, many of which have been ratified by a considerable number of countries, as well as 127 formal recommendations: these instruments deal with a broad range of social and labour subjects.

WESTERN EUROPEAN UNION

9 Grosvenor Place, London, S.W.1, England

The Brussels Treaty, signed in 1948 by Belgium, France, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and the United Kingdom, provided for collective self-defence and for collaboration in economic, social and cultural matters.

On October 23, 1954, the Treaty was amended to include the German Federal Republic and Italy, thus making it a more effective focus of European integration. This arrangement came into force on May 6, 1955, and the resulting organization was known as "Western European Union".

It consists of a Council, meeting either at Ministerial level or, more frequently, at Ambassadorial level at the seat of the Organization in London; of an Agency for the Control of Armaments, set up to ensure that the undertakings given by the German Federal Republic not to manufacture certain armaments are observed, and to control the level of armaments of all seven Member states on the mainland of Europe; of a Standing Armaments Committee which deals with the production and standardization of armaments. Until 1st June 1960 when they were transferred to the Council of Europe, the Organization included a number of social and cultural committees set up to further collaboration between the Seven on such questions. There is also a Western European Union Parliamentary Assembly, which usually meets twice a year, composed of delegated members from the parliaments of all seven countries.

International secretariats serve the Council of W.E.U., the Agency for the Control of Armaments, and the Standing Armaments Committee.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE IN CANADA

The Church of Christ, Scientist, or Christian Science denomination, in Canada includes 87 churches; 4 in Alberta, 25 in British Columbia, 1 in Newfoundland, 4 in Manitoba, 3 in New Brunswick, 1 in Nova Scotia, 41 in Ontario, 4 in the Province of Quebec, and 4 in Saskatchewan. The Christian Science denomination has no ordained clergy. Instead each church has two Readers who are elected for stated terms from among the members, and who conduct its services. Each church also maintains a public Reading Room, where the authorized literature of the denomination may be found. Communications should be addressed to J. Buroughs Stokes, Manager, Christian Science Committees on Publication, 107 Falmouth St., Boston Mass., 02115

The first non-Greek to become head of the Byelorussian Orthodox Church was Archbishop Gregory in 1415 A.D. At the present time the Byelorussian Orthodox Church is subjected by force to the control of the Russian Patriarch of Moscow.

On June 14, 1922, the Mensk Council of Byelorussian Orthodox laymen and clergy under the leadership of Metropolitan Melchisadek attempted to organize and on July 23 proclaimed as independent the Byelorussian Autocephalic Orthodox Church in Byelorussia, but was annihilated by the Russian Communist Regime with consent of the head of the Russian Orthodox Church, Metropolitan Siergij of Moscow (later Patriarch of Moscow).

Soon after the conclusion of the Council all participants in that council of laymen and clergy, including Metropolitan Melchisadek of Mensk, with his Bishops Mikalay of Slutzk, John of Mazyr and Filaret of Babruysk were all arrested and sent to Siberia. All Bishops died in Russian concentration camps in Siberia.

On June 5, 1948, Constance Council of Byelorussian Orthodox emmigrants, laymen, and clergy under the leadership of Archbishop Sergi, proclaimed and organized the Byelorussian Autocephalic Orthodox Church Abroad. Soon after on December 19, 1949 a new bishop was consecrated Archbishop Vasili. And in 1968 two more new bishops were consecrated. THE MENNONITES IN CANADA

1483 Pembina Highway, Winnipeg 19, Man.

The church originated in Switzerland and Holland in the sixteenth century. The Canadian church began as a result of immigration and it has continued to grow through "waves" of immigration (1815-1860; 1873-1884; 1922-1930; 1947 f.) and propagation. At present there are approximately 59,000 baptized members. Including children there are 152,452 Mennonites in Canada according to the 1961 census.

The Mennonites have combined a strong evangelical and service emphasis. Foreign and home missionary activity is on the increase. A strong service and aid program has developed through the Mennonite Central Committee (MCC).

Their educational emphasis is partially evident in the eight Bible Schools, eight High Schools and three Colleges financed and operated by them. Increasingly more Mennonites are holding positions in state colleges and universities.

With this rapidly increasing interest in higher education accompanied by an equally rapid urbanization, the social and cultural patterns of the Mennonites are undergoing considerable change.

Through an active program of education and publication, the Mennonite Church seeks to help all of its members become profitable Christians in a changing society.

EDUCATION IN MANITOBA

BOARDS OF EDUCATION

The Province of Manitoba is divided into 48 units called School Divisions. In 43 of these 48 Divisions, the Division School Board is responsible for Elementary and Secondary Education. The remaining 5 School Divisions are referred to as Non-Unitary, since they are responsible only for Secondary Education. Within the boundaries of these 5 Divisions are smaller units of education, referred to as School Districts. These School District Boards are responsible for the Elementary Education.

In School Districts, Trustees are elected at the Annual Meeting in January. School Division Elections are held in October.
